

Teresa's Prayer Warriors

Hi Family and Friends,

Teresa has made some progress today 😊 First of all, she is scheduled to have her clavicle "put back together" tomorrow, Tuesday, afternoon at 3pm. This is good, because we hope that after the surgery, the tough Physical Therapy on her right arm and hand will begin. She is speaking better each day, and can move her right leg even more, but still has problems with her foot. Her appetite is very poor, but she IS swallowing really well. Chocolate pudding tasted good and she has decided that she "needs" to have a Hershey chocolate bar so that she can reward herself with a small square when she accomplishes a new skill. I guess Barb will be making a trip to the store for a candy bar so that she can have a piece after surgery!

We thank you again for all of your prayers. They definitely are helping!
Love and Hugs, Barb and Jerry
